

Course Name: Behavior Management Strategies for Students K-12

Course Dates: Ongoing

Cost: $199.00 (Additional $55 if applying for Graduate Credit)

Credit: 10 hours and 1.0 Graduate Credit available from Seattle Pacific University

Instructor: Ruth Herman Wells, M.S.

Assignments:

- Watch the Videos
- Pre & Post Tests
- Workbook Activities

Who Should Take: This course is designed for teachers, special educators, principals, social workers, school counselors, psychologists, school nurses, juvenile justice workers, after school staff, residential treatment workers, family therapists, juvenile court staff, juvenile detention and corrections workers, teaching assistants, paraprofessionals, foster parents, drug and alcohol counselors.

Course Purpose/Description: To deliver relevant, effective, ready to implement strategies to turnaround students' emotional, school and social problems. This includes poor motivation, school failure, bullying, work refusal, tardiness, defiance, absenteeism, underperforming, apathy, delinquency, depression, ADHD, Asperger's, violence, peer conflict and much more. This course delivers hundreds of updated strategies to more effectively prevent and manage students' emotional, school, behavioral and social problems. This class has practical, real-world, ready to use answers for the most serious and persistent issues in today's classrooms. This will help you manage the problems that you face every day.

Benefits:

- Flexibility - Complete assignments at your own pace and schedule
- Solutions – Over 200 strategies to implement immediately with students

What you will get out of the course:

- 10 hours of Professional Development (1.0 Graduate Credit available for $55)
- FREE resources and tools - Over 200 strategies to customize for your students
- Certificate of completion

What you need to take the course:

- Access to the Internet using a computer, a working email.